II. Health Care (1/2)

I. General Information

There are two different options for the patient to access health care. Firstly, there are services covered under the national health insurance fund (HIF), while the alternative is, to pay the treatment by themselves. Through HIF coverage, general physicians are the first to be contacted in need. At this point, access to these services is free of charge. After primary examination, the General Physician refers the patient to higher levels of care, if necessary, specifying the type of treatment and the health care institution at which the treatment should be obtained. If additional examinations are needed, specialists can refer the patient further. Tertiary care depends on previous treatments and referral at the secondary level at general or other specialized hospitals. The role of the General Physician is central in the therapy management of the patient as well as to schedule all additional secondary/tertiary appointments through "MojTermin" electronic system.

Benefits

There are two types of health insurance: compulsory and voluntary insurance for some forms of health care.

The compulsory health insurance includes health care benefits at the Primary Health Care level, at the Specialist consultative Health Care level and Hospital services.

The following services are not covered by the compulsory health insurance and, if necessary, might be a subject to voluntary health insurance:

- aesthetic surgery, sanatorium treatment and medical rehabilitation of certain chronic non-communicable diseases (except for children up to 18 years of age)
- in-patient health services with higher standard or comfort
- medicines not included in the list of medicines determined by the HIF
- orthopedic facilities and instruments not included in the list prepared by the HIF or made of higher standard of materials
- accommodation in gerontology facilities.

II. Health Care (2/2)

Costs

The insured persons and their family members have the obligation to participate to the costs of the health services provided on their own, but not more than 20% of the total cost of the treatment.

2. Medical treatment and medication

Medical facilities and doctors:

Primary ambulatory care is provided mainly by private primary care providers and by outpatient specialist-consultative providers in the 34 Health Centers and some private providers.

Alongside the wide network of primary care providers, the system was designed to provide specialist services on an outpatient basis with wider outreach. The ambulatory specialist services are provided mainly through health care providers in the public domain.

At tertiary level, services are provided by university clinics and institutes in the capital of Skopje. These 28 university clinics have been the first pillar of tertiary care in the country. Hospitals can be general (with at least internal medicine, general surgery, gynecology and obstetrics, and pediatric wards), specialized or clinical. The contact details of key hospitals can be found in the contact list contained within this document.

Procedure of admission

To be admitted into the compulsory health insurance, the applicant can register at the local office of the HIF. The applicant needs to present a valid ID, completed application for health insurance, document verifying the payment of the mandatory health insurance participation and medical legitimation.

IV. Housing

I. General Information

In North Macedonia, most of the urban life and population is centered in Skopje, with more than 50% of the urban population either living or working in the city.

There are substantial differences in the pricing of accommodation units, by region, and by area. Most of the accommodation offers centered in Skopje and around areas.

For returnees interested in constructing a house, the main precondition is that the land is privately owned and that the returnee acquires a building license. The costs for construction of 1m² vary depending on the location of the dwelling, the quality of the materials, and the communal taxes, with the minimum costs range from 400-500 EUR in the urban areas.

The price of land for construction purposes varies depending on location. For example, in the city centre of Skopje and its immediate surroundings the price of land ranges from 500 – 1000 EUR per m². In the more luxurious settlements such as Vodno, Przino and Crnice, the prices may reach 800 – 1000 EUR per m². In the suburbs of Skopje the prices range from 80 - 100 EUR per m².

The main requirement for renting an accommodation in the Republic of North Macedonia is a rental contract, which is concluded between the landlord and the tenant. The rental contract must be in written form, signed by both parties, and certified by a notary. This obliges the landlord to pay a 10% income tax of the rented amount, and because of this, landlords usually are reluctant to follow the legal procedure. The costs for maintenance, such as bills for electricity, water, heating, as well as small repairs, are covered by the tenant. Usually, landlords prefer the rental agreement to be concluded for an average period of six months, and no less than three months.

The cost of the rent varies significantly, mainly depending on the location and duration of the rental period. Thus, an apartment in the central part of Skopje is rented for 350 - 400 EUR per month for 60m².

The rent in the more distant areas is less than or the same like in Skopje. In Vodno or Crnice settlements bigger apartments are rented for 1000-1400 EUR per month for 90-125m². Out of Skopje, the rent is significantly lower.

2. Ways/assistance to find accommodation

There are many real-estate agencies in North Macedonia which cover the whole territory of the country or operate in a certain town. Various information regarding opportunities of buying real estate can be found online <http://www.pazar3.mk/> ; www.reklama5.mk ; www.imoti247.com ; www.metar2.mk . Detailed information as well as contacts for most famous real-estate agencies are included in the contact list.

3. Social grants for housing

Socially vulnerable groups can benefit from various policy measures, such as emergency shelter, financial support for social housing, social apartments and other support. Thus, socially vulnerable groups without place to stay are temporarily accommodated in a Reception Centre for a period up to 60 days. The Reception Centre offers accommodation, food, proper hygienic and sanitary conditions, as well as free counselling and other social protection services. Returnees must apply in the relevant Center for Social Work (nearest to their residence address) to be accommodated in any reception facility which the Center manages.

After the initial short-term accommodation period and after all necessary personal documents are procured, returnees will be able to realize all their right to social housing.

Returnees in socially vulnerable situation, especially those at risk of homelessness can apply for a social apartment.

The decision for granting a social apartment is made by the municipal council (in the municipality where the social housing is located), and the Ministry of Labor and Social Policy.

VI. Educational System (1/2)

I. General Information

The education system of the Republic of North Macedonia consists of pre-school, primary, secondary and higher education.

Educational Level	Age
Pre-school/Kindergarten	0–5
Primary Level
Primary/Elementary School	6–14
Secondary Level
Secondary/ High School School	14–18
Higher Education
College, University, Professional School etc.	From 18

Primary education is mandatory and free for all students. There are approximately 1,100 primary schools in the country, and most of them are easily accessible. Free of charge books for the primary school pupils, as well as free of charge transportation for the pupils who live farther than 2km from the school are granted.

Since 2007, secondary education is also compulsory and free of charge, and is divided into four types: general secondary school, art education, education for children with special needs and four-year, three-year or two-year vocational education. Students who complete the four-year vocational education can choose between the final exam and state exam, depending on whether they want to continue their education or not, while for students from general high schools, the state exam is obligatory. Among the existing 116 high schools, more than 100 are public and others are private or religious. Approximately 14% of secondary schools are gymnasiums, 34.5% are vocational, while 29% offer gymnasium and vocational education; 4 schools are for children with special educational needs and 5 are art schools. Higher education is realized at three levels: undergraduate, master and doctoral studies. There are 5 state universities functioning in the country (one in Albanian) and more than 6 private universities and additional faculties.

The education system is organized around four languages in primary schools (Macedonian, Albanian, Turkish and Serbian / Bosniak) and three languages in secondary schools (Macedonian, Albanian and Turkish). About 29% of primary schools and 34% of secondary schools are bilingual / trilingual. The bulk of them are schools with the Macedonian and Albanian language.

There is also a Center for Adult Education, which was established in June 2009, and is the primary institution related to adult education in the country. At the moment, 53 providers of informal training are currently accredited, and they are allowed to issue certificates recognized by the state.

2. Costs, loans and scholarships

Private primary and secondary schools are based on the principle of self-financing. The average fees for one school year are from EUR 2000 to EUR 5000.

If students enter the state quota, part of the tuition fees is covered by the state. Those students have to pay 200 EUR per year, while for dispersed studies students have to pay 100 EUR per year. Students who are not in the state quota need to pay 400 EUR per year.

Private universities need to be self-financed, the approximate fee for one academic year is 2000 EUR.

Any additional information regarding the educational system in North Macedonia can be acquired at: www.mon.gov.mk

3. Approval and verification of foreign diplomas

Citizens of North Macedonia who have completed their education abroad can request to have their diplomas recognized and accredited in North Macedonia.

VI. Educational System (2/2)

The institutions responsible for the recognition and accreditation of foreign diplomas is the Ministry of Justice and the Ministry of Education and Science.

The procedure for application is identical for the primary and secondary education. In addition to the request for recognition, the applicant must submit the original diploma issued by the accredited foreign primary school and translation of the diploma in three samples. The translation must be provided by an authorized translator. Additional documents may be required by the relevant ministries.

For the recognition of the university diploma, in addition to the necessary documents, the applicant should also submit a signed statement that the documents are valid. The Information Centre verifies the validity of the original documents and examines the background of the institution that issued the diploma. The recognition is done by an Expert Commission established by the Educational Council of the relevant university. If it turns out during the recognition procedure that the educational plan and program are significantly different from the educational plan and program of the relevant university, the applicant will have to pass additional exams.

VII. Concrete Support for Returnees

I. Reintegration assistance programs

In 2010 the Government of North Macedonia adopted a Programme for Reintegration of Returnees. The purpose of the program is to support the implementation of the Agreement with the EC on the readmission of irregular migrants, as well as the implementation of other readmission agreements with third countries. In addition to this overall objective, the programme's specific objectives are:

- Establishment of necessary technical, and institutional capacities at national and local level for readmission, protection and sustainable integration of returnees;
- Provision of an institutional and systematic framework for support and assistance by the relevant institutions;
- Facilitation of sustainable reintegration of returnees, thereby preventing reoccurrence of irregular migration;
- Enabling and accelerating access to existing rights within the protection system;
- Offering support for the social and economic independence of returnees, and preventing dependency on the system;
- Provision of opportunities not only for passive reintegration, but also for active contribution of the returnees in the local community;
- Serving as a starting point for designing different information-sharing modalities for provision of information to the returnees on the services offered by the program;
- Contributing to enhancement of the data collection system through the establishment of a database for forced and voluntary returned migrants

The beneficiaries of the program are returnees.

2. Financial and administrative support

The program offers wide-ranging forms of assistance and support to returnees in several areas:

- Legal aid and personal documentation: provision of legal aid and support in obtaining personal documents, support in issuance and recognition of foreign diplomas, accelerated procedures for issuing documentation in a period of 30 days.

- Social protection: establishment of a Reception Centre, social support services, information and facilitation of access to available types of social support for returnees.
- Economic support and employment: referral to the State Employment Agency and local employment centres; informing returnees about their rights and obligations, employment opportunities, occupations in deficit; preparation of individual employment plans; inclusion in existing active labour market measures; organization of workshops for active job seeking and adopting techniques for successful job placement and labour market adjustments; inclusion in training and lectures (computer skills, foreign languages).
- Health care: screening of the general health condition of returnees; referral to competent institutions for additional treatment or information; provision of basic health protection package immediately upon readmission of the returnees, for a period of maximum 60 days;
- Education: assessment and registering of the returnees' educational status; provision of information about existing educational opportunities, scholarships, mentorship, etc.; provision of access and integration of returnees in educational institutions, according to their age, physical and intellectual abilities, as well as previous educational background; provision of free school meals for children of returnees in social risk; supporting the process of obtaining and recognizing foreign diplomas and certificates; provision of free textbooks for primary and secondary school students; organization of lectures in the respective languages of the returnees.

However, despite the comprehensiveness and potential benefits of the program, its actual implementation is in the initial phase and is yet to be implemented.
